Simple Ceremony at Country Home of Professor and Mrs. W. H. Taft.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD. MURRAY BAY, Quebec, July 15,-Caby the Imperator. Other passengers nadian and American society gathered at were the Misses Sylvia and Audrey the picturesque Union Church at Points

ning of Braintree, Mass.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herbert Symonds of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal. and all of the family are enthusiastic about the life there and its quiet and simplicity. The little stone church covered with vy has been the scene of many international services in connection with the war and in connection with events concerning both countries. Built in 1866 Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satteries will and opened in 1867 by a group of men go to Bar Harbor from Highland Falls, from Montreal, Toronto and Quebec, it was the scene in 1901 of a memorial service on the death of President Mc-Kinley, conducted by the Rev. William S. Rainsford. In 1911 Earl Grey and his family attended services at this church.

The church was a mass of flowers to-day. The altar was covered with white peonies, flanked by young larches. The chancel was decorated with boughs of white pine and wreaths of the same cov-ered the pillars. The ends of the pews meter buckboards, and on these rides so to the Adirondacks from Oyster Bay, were decorated with foliage of Solomon Her Marriage to Mr. Douglas seal and larkspur. The flowers were gifts from the gardens of Mrs. Bulsae, Miss Gibert, Mrs. McCagg and Mrs. Eckstein. Brewster Johnson to Mr. Douglas

The bride drove to the church with her father, who gave her away. She wore a gown of white taffeta, trimmed with old Brussels lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and cam-panulas and white roses. Miss Edith Morgan of New York, the maid of honor and the only attendant, was gowned in light blue chiffon, with a large pink hat med with yellow flowers and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bride's train was borne by Masters William H. Taft 2d and Robert Taft. nephews of the bride, dressed in suits of yellow satin. The mother of the bride was gowned in brown satin house of Johnson & Johnson. Some draped with orange chiffon and lace and time after Mr. Johnson's death als wore a large brown hat. An Important Contribution to New York's Supply of Summer Fun.

Following the example of George White, Will Morrisey, Ed Wynn and other Impending comedians. William Theatre under the title "Silks and Satins." which perhaps serves as well as Church at Baltimore, where he served any other name when it is in reality what the women were rather than what they revealed that is to be taken as descriptive of the scene during most of the avening. There were, to be sure, occasional glimpses of silk and satin of undoubtedly the best quality. But there Rock now has a revue all his own. He undoubtedly the best quality. But there were also evocative stretches of pelt and more bare back work than any olld fashioned circus ever boasted to interest the spectators searching for the simpler satisfactions of nature rather than art.

In other respects Mr. Rock's producion was in accordance with the latest models. He has reduced the revue to its simplest form and there is no more dramatic sequence about "Silks and Satins" than there is about a bill at the Palace. But like the well made vaudeville bill there is the alternation of entertainment. There is sufficient variety to keep the spectators diverted and it might be said at the outset that Mr. Rock's enterprise contains scenes that are vastly entertaining and occasionally novel in the manner of these spectacles. The best of the humor is lifted directly from the vaudeville stage. William Demarest, for example, delighted the spectators with his stolld fall backward in which he so often indulged with the certainity of disaster but with an apparent inability to resist the experiment in the hope that he might once succeed. Then his burlesque card tricks and imitations gain in humor from his wooden manner. West Avey and Dennis O'Neil are two newcomers in black fun who might have made no impression but for the novel dancing of the man who disguised himself as a girl. His long sweeps of stocking over the orchestra pit and his imitation of the affectations of the woman hoofer, brought out the loudest applause of the evening, so genuinely grateful is the public for some-Mr. Rock was discreetly rettring, but surrounded himself with some capable dancers. Miss Ernestine Myers may no in her sinuous evolutions recall all the glorien of Old Nila but she can suggest admirably Little Egypt at her best Miss Alleen Stanley has a jazz voice of the indispensable carrying quality, and Miss Delphie Daughn proved that not only the thing girls can dance. Misses Helen Eby, Virginia Les, Phoebe King. Jean Thomas and Hazel Webb might be named as good example of the prevailing pulchritude without which, of course, any revue would be hopeless nowadays. Rock showed an admirable catho licity of taste in including some of the piump girls once more in his cohorts. They had almost entirely disappeared. The Hart Sisters crooned an intermi-nable ditty about childhood and Jue Quon Tal presented to the audience the novel spectacle of a Chinese lady in blue and allver pajamas singing and dancing with the abandon of a carefree Thomas Duggan and Miss Babette Raymond came from vaudeville to show their scene in which the apples fall from the tree during their conversation. But some other things in their part of "Silk and Satine" fell more heavily than the apples. The Rock revue is in its entirety an important contribution to New York's supply of sum

Led Gay Life in Parts and Mar ried Blanco's Daughter.

PARIS, July 15 .- Duke de Morny, sor in-law of former President Blanco of Venezuela, is dead here, according to announcement. He was $1 years old,

The Duke de Morny was the son of the first Duke of that name, who was a Minister and one of the advisers of the third Napoleon. His father was said to be nearly related to Louis Napoleon. Before his marriage to Senorita Carlotta, daughter of Gusman Blanco, dictator of Venezuela from 1870 to 1883, the Dune de Morny was one of the best known young men in the gayest life of Paris. He was one of the best dressed men there—a Beau Brummel—and, according to Paris newspapers of those days, was connected with many escapades-duels, gallant adventures, extravagances and daring feats of horsemanship. He was said to have been in manship. He was said to have been in financial difficulties just before his marriage and the dowry his bride brought to him was $5,000,000.

The Duke was reported to have fought a duel with Harry Vane Milbank near Ostend in the early 90s. The meeting was a result of the Hallett Alsop Borrowe-Drayton divorce case.
